Wayne,
It looks like the discharge has stopped as of this morning due to heavy rains and snow all weekend. Dennis just updated me that the weekend went well with about 10 hours of clear discharge each day. They are going to let things dry out for a couple days before pumping some more and then adding the proposed "Chitosan" flocculent (if approved). Which brings us to this point: We should have a conference call or brief meeting to discuss this proposal. The next few days are busy but we could either squeeze in a call with you folks or use e-mail to discuss any comments or concerns. Let me know what works at your end. Thanks...Jeff
