Purpose of Inspection:

Inspected the site while in the area.

Inspection Summary:

The site is located on the west side of Braffit Ridge in Parowan Canyon, Iron County, Utah. The site is located at the base of sandstone cliffs/slopes. I attempted to GPS the site but because of the cliffs in the area it was not possible. I even tried to take a point at the highway where the road into the site is located, to no avail.

I visited with Ed Ginouves of the Cedar City, who stated that he had not GPS'd the site either. Ed had pictures of the site that are included in this report.

The disturbed area at the site is small , less than one acre. The silica material is being removed from a sandstone cliff.

It did not appear that the site had operated recently.

Conclusions and Recommendations:

I will continue to monitor the site when I am in the area.

Directions to Site:

The site is located 8.7 miles up Parowan Canyon on the left, going up the canyon. The site is situated about 200' off the highway.
