Re: Your letter to Quality Building Stone, Inc. dated March 26, 2004 with regards to Site Inspections of Qualitys stone Quarries in Wayne County, Utah, and your Notice of Noncompliance, and your Letter Modifying this Notice of Noncompliance dated March 4, 2004 and April 7, 2004 respectfully.

Dear Mr. Hedberg,

In response to your notice's, Quality Building Stone, Inc. hereby sets forth its position on those issues as stated in your Notices as follows:

1. Quality is totally opposed to DOGM's idea of treating both Quarries as one project or operation. The proximity as far a access puts these 2 Quarries approximately 5 miles apart of which exceeds the distance of 2 miles as recommended under State guidelines. Irregardless of proximity the final decision should rest with the operator.

Quality Building Stone Inc. at present plans to submit each of these 2 Quarries under separate Applications and to have them treated as such. Both will be submitted on Small Mine Applications after taking those steps/action as listed as follows.

2. Quality Building Stone, Inc plans to immediately commence reclamation at both sites in order to substantually reduce the affected areas in a plan to have both sites less than five (5) acres each. Upon completion of reclamation at these 2 sites Quality Building Stone will contact D.O.G.M. and proceed forward with both the Bonding and the Permit Application in addition to any Permit Fees that meets State requirements.

3. Quality Building Stone, Inc plans to pursue adding the Division to that $3,000.00 surety that they currently hold with B.L.M.

4. If these steps that Quality plans to pursue meet D.O.G.M. approval than there is not a need for any meetings and/or appeals, however
