Hi Susan,

I think the tour went well yesterday. Henry kept comparing it to the undermining of the stream, county road and railroad done over by Twenty Mile mine and that we didn't have anything compared to it.

There weren't any new issues that came up. The Elusive Peacock shelter fell in some more since Monday and is now covered with rock. The floor is still holding at this point and will be checked again on Monday. Only one subsidence crack was found and it was located on the slope above the stream on the East side of the canyon. No cracks were found in the stream channel but a lot of it is covered with snow and ice. No new cracks were observed along the sandstone outcrop above the stream channel.

We never seen anyone from the forest service.

Mike

Hi Mike,

I'm just curious, how did it go yesterday? Pete is in Green River for a meeting so we haven't heard anything. Did OSM have any issues? Did the Forest show up?

Thanks
Susan
