Hi Daron,

I spoke with Leland this morning regarding the status of the borehole drilling project. They have managed to complete one borehole and are currently in the process of advancing the second. They are hoping to get cooperation with the weather this week to finish working on the 3rd and 4th holes. The weather and some equipment failures slowed them down over the weekend.

Leland said once they can assess the conditions with the down hole camera, then they will be able to determine the best method of inserting the foam to seal up the old workings - either via the newly drilled boreholes or through horizontal drilling techniques.
